Five men sitting together in a store in town on Monday morning counted up 75 rabbits they caught the day before, and four others in another store counted up 41 they had caught; and they all claimed they were not hunting, either. No one will doubt the first part of these statements, but the claim that they were not hunting will be credited by even a very few of the most credulous.

Mrs. Cynthia H. Davis died at the residence of her husband, Mr. B. A. Davis, in Savannah township, on last Friday afternoon, after a short illness. Mrs. Davis was an excellent lady, and was very much admired by a large circle of friends, who sympathize with the bereaved ones over her death. Appropriate funeral services were conducted at the house on Saturday by Rev. W. A. Hodges, and the remains were interred in the Bethesda burial ground.

Moorhead, Librarian; Wm. D. Bewley, Asst. Librarian. The installation will take place this evening.

The Associate Reformed Presbyterian, published at Due West, S. C., by Rev. Dr. J. I. Bonner. has donned a new dress, enlarged to an 8-page paper and in other respects greatly improved on what it used to be. It is a pleasure to note the signs of our excellent neighbor's prespective and we have it lent neighbor's prosperity, and we hope it may continue to receive that degree of patronage from the denomination it represents it so richly merits. It is one of the best re-ligious weeklies we know of.

Mr. William Bolt, of Centreville township, started to town with a load of cotton on Thursday evening. 23d ult., but from some cause or other had to leave one bale on the roadside a short distance from his place, where it remained until night, when it was stolen by some one and taken away. The wagon on which it was hauled off was tracked several miles to where it turned into a road that had been traveled a good deal, when it was lost. Though diligent search has been made, the cotton has not been found nor any clue to the thief obtained. found nor any clue to the thief obtained.

Mr. Newton Scott died at his residence i Mr. Newton Scott died at his residence in this place on the night of the 22nd of December at the age of about 40 years, of cancer on the face, after a painful and protracted illness. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church, a good citizen, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His remains were interred in the Presbyterian graveyard with Masonic honors on the afternoon of the 23d ult., after an impressive funeral service in the Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Carlisle. A wife and four children, with other relatives and sympathizing friends mourn his death.

The Council had an interesting session of The Council had an interesting session of about two hours and a half on Tuesday afternoon, in which ten or twelve offenders against the peace and dignity of the town were tried, convicted and fined, the aggregate amount of the fines reaching about $55. The usual Ordinance to raise supplies for the fiscal year beginning January 1, 1881, was also passed, and will be found in another column. The tax levy is 15 cents on every bundred dollars worth of real and personal bundred dollars worth of real and personal property. The Ordinance also provides for the publication by the Town Clerk, in one of the County newspapers, on or by the 15th February, 1881, of a statement showing the amount of personal property returned by each and every taxpayer of the town, and that all returns must be made on or before the 1st February.

The winter thus far has been a hard one, and the weather for the past 10 days the coldest felt in many years. The ground has been covered with snow since Christmas morning, and the thermometer below freezing point nearly the whole time. On the night of the 28th and morning of the 29th six inches of snow fell, and on the night following we had the coldest snap experienced in this latitude in 25 or 30 years, and many say since the cold Saturday in Febfree of charge at ruary, 1835. The thermometer registered 6 degrees below zero on the morning of the 30th and 3 on the morning of the 31st, and many of the running streams were frozen entirely over. Both Seneca and Tugaloo rivers were covered with such thick coats of ice at Andersonville that they could not be crossed with ferry boats, while kerosene oil in lamps and vinegar in table cruets was solid. Little birds were found dead under their roosts, while the fowls about the yards refused to leave their houses. The snow of the 29th had melted very little up to the 1st instant, when another fell, and on Sunday morning it was eight inches deep. Since then it has been somewhat warmer, though it is still bitter cold, and even with big fires it is difficult to keep comfortable. How it is difficult to keep comfortable. How long the cold spell will last is a matter now that everybody in general, and those whose supply of wood is short in particular, is in-terested in.

Death of Col. John Martin.

Col. John Martin, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of this County, died at his residence in Martin township on last Wednesday, after a lingering illness of several months. Col. Martin was born on the first day of September, 1793, within the first day of the place he resided at the half a mile of the place he resided at the time of his death. He received only a limited English education, but was naturally a man of strong mind and excellent raily a man of strong mind and excenent judgment. He possessed great mechanical ingenuity, and could do anything in this line, although he never pursued it. As a young man he was very fond of hunting sports and in them became famous as one of the finest marksmen that this section has ever produced. He fought through the war o 1812 in Capt. Thompson's Company, and is believed to have been the last survivor of

He was a very popular man, and was very successful in elections. In 1832 he was chosen a member of the Legislature from this County. In 1836 he was elected Ordinary, and in 1846 and 1854 was elected Sheriff of the County. He always took great interest in the militia, and beginning as Captain of the Bear Creek Company he became Major of the First Battalion and afterwards Colonel of the old Fourth Regiment, which position he held for many

After the war; when the Commissioners were laying the County off into townships, they named the one in which he resided, Martin, for him. Col. Martin was always an active, benevolent, sociable man, and no one ever had warmer personal friends than he. He was upright and honorable in all of the transactions of life, and hence was respected by all who knew him. His re-mains were interred on Thursday in Ebeezer Church-yard.

The County that I live in (Calhoun) is known as one of the hill counties of the State, or North Alabama, a contradistinguished from the "black belt," or what is known as the cotton belt, or South Alabama. Though we do not live in the cotton belt proper, we have a good country for cotton, our best lands yielding as high as a bale to the acre, and our second best as much as half a bale to the acre. Our avermuch as half a bale to the acre. Our average yield of corn is twenty bushels per acre. Some of our best bottom lands bring as high as sixty bushels per acre. Clover, small grain and the grasses do well. In fact, this is a natural stock raising country, and ought to be to the cotton belt of Alabama what Tennasses and Kentraley.

We already have one manmoth cotton factory that will commence operations about the middle of March, and the erection of another is to begin immediately. The mineral wealth of the country is untold. East of us but thirty miles are rich copper and gold mines. West of us about the same distance are exensive and inexhaustible coal fields. UNDER THE SNOW. BY JOHN II. BONER.

This beautiful poem originally appeared in the Salem (N. C.) Press. It is one of the most beautiful gems that we have encountered in many days, and just now can be fully appreciated:

The brown old earth lies quiet and still

The brown old earth lies quiet and still
Under the snow;
The furrows are hid on the broken hill
Under the snow;
Every twig is fringed with mossy pearl,
The drooping cedars bend to the ground,
The rose bush is drifted into the mound,
And still from the silent sky to the ground
The white flakes noiselessly whirl. The roads and fields are buried deep
Under the snow;
The hedges lie in a tangled heap
Under the snow;
And the little gray rabbits under them creep,
While the twittering sparrows cunningly peep
From the sheltering briers and cosily sleep
Under the snow.

The rough old barn and sheds near by,
The mounded straws of the wheat and rye,
Are covered with snow;
The straggling fences are softened with down,
Every part is white, with a beautiful crown
Of drifted snow.

And I think, as I sit in the gloaming here, Watching the objects disappear, How many things are folded low Under the drift of the falling snow!

There are hearts that once were full of love

Under the snow;
There are eyes that glowed with the soul of love

Under the snow;
There are faded tresses of golden hair
And locks that were bleached with the frost of care—
There are lips that once were like the rose,
There are bosoms that were stung with woes,
There are breasts that once were true and strong,
There are forms that once were raised in song—
O, there's a strange and nighty throng

Under the snow!

Another mound will once lie deep
Under the snow!
And I will with the pale ones sleep
Under the snow.
O. God, transform my soul with grace
That in the lovelight of thy face
I may stand pure when death shall place
My pulseless heart and body low
Under the snow!
